The Giants: Signs of the Time

Ben Davis High School went "mod" in 1969, with rotating classes and no bells. As a result, 1,984 "Giants" sometimes waited impatiently for their 114 teachers to finish, or arrived breathlessly to class, only to discover it was the wrong one.

Keeping in step with time was not halted here. Sweater vests and corrective shoes led the fashion scene, as the scientifically minded met the challenges of the new Aerospace class.

But the hurry and bustle cannot conceal the precious quiet moments. Who can forget . . .

the morning gathering in the student center, walking to class with that special someone,
the pride of an assignment well done, or the dejection as a long hoped-for victory turns to defeat?

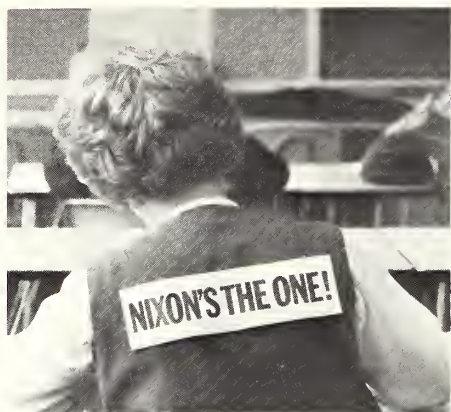

Moving forward in progress, enjoying life and living it to the best of their abilities while seeking their place in the world of today—these are Ben Davis students—Signs of the Time.

BD'ites Acquired New Dimensions

In academics, activities, athletics, and the students themselves, signs were evident everywhere of a new dimensional and progressive Ben Davis. A schedule of rotating periods, each seventy minutes, consisted of classes ranging from industrial arts to the new Aerospace, a course unique to the entire nation. While the band marched at the State Fair making "Giants" a household word, others worked behind the scenes making 1969 at Ben Davis High School successful in every way.

Times Together Were Times Alone

Though never shirking his responsibilities, a Giant often retreated from the hurry and scurry of life in a quickly changing world. Study, personal relationships, or an examination of the world around him offered the student excellent opportunities to break daily routine. Diligence marked the business side of a Giant preparing an assignment, while sincerity and interest prevailed in more personal situations. These thoughtful, quiet moments were never wasted, for in them life had acquired special meaning.

Quiet Times Reflected Deep Thought

Surrounding victory and success were the thoughtful moments when the Giant attempted to reach the ultimate of perfection. Always seeking excellence, he often benefited from his mistakes. The quiet times were filled with feelings of anticipation, anxiety, frustration, and pride. Although these moments were not always the happiest ones, they were signs of a Giant, proud to be a Giant and showing it.

Hopefully, each moment developed within the individual a readiness to face the trying times of the future.

“Their Thing” Was Fast-Paced Life

While doing “their thing” Ben Davis students sought their place in the world through varied academic and extra-curricular activities. The Aerospace Program challenged while it enriched the minds of the progressive students. BD’ites did not neglect other means of self-expression, though. In athletic competition and personal association with their peers, students progressed toward mature, responsible lives.

Forty-eight clubs, honoraries, and diversified class activities broadened the scope of personal achievements.

Giants' Actions Were Self-Expressive

Zest Sparked Giant Individuality

Whatever a Giant considered "his bag," he did it with zest and ambition. Sports, a touch of the daring, and learning from our foreign neighbors were just a few expressions of individuality and interest in the world around him. The classroom appeared to retain its traditional qualities, but a closer look revealed such new innovations as no bells, longer class time, new teaching techniques, and more independent study. Assimilating these progressive ideas into school life, the Giant had helped change his corner of the world.

Homecoming Ignited BDHS Spirit

Signs of Homecoming included soft, fragrant mums; a Brebeuf Brave sizzling at the stake; tissue-paper floats; and breathless royalty. While the Choral Club captured a first for the third consecutive year in float competition, Tammy Bohlander accepted the crown, Jeanette Eilers, senior attendant, Sally Sexauer, Debbie Steele, Marilyn Bray, junior attendant, Kitty Clossey, Joyce Ripberger, Donna Adams, sophomore attendant, Becky Boyer, and Vicki Cook joyously looked on.

Competition Keynoted Homecoming

Fashion Created Its "Own Thing"

Wanting to be in the swing of things, Ben Davis students proudly displayed their mod wardrobes. Signs of today's teens could be seen in their steelrimmed glasses, lengthened sideburns, and newfangled watches. Always seeking the fresh, different means of expression, girls were not out-done with their novel, and sometimes haircurling, hair-styles. Shoes and dresses showed an Old English flair, but the sweater and skirt still represented the modern teen at Ben Davis.

It Was but Once in Their Lifetime

Even before the school year began, Seniors felt the excitement, and some of the pressures, that each graduating class must experience. Posing for Senior pictures officially kicked off the eventful year. When school began Ben Davis Seniors showed their "Giant" spirit and responsibility through their involvement in such activities as planning the Senior Christmas dance, the Senior Varieties, and the Senior Breakfast. Many Seniors welcomed graduation and the new opportunities it would bring while others feared these new experiences.

Diversity Highlighted Participation

Diversity was the sign of the Giants. Thespians appeared in the "Crucible", "The Mouse that Roared", and "Oklahoma" as others toiled behind the scenes. Sports were promoted by the Booster Bus Ticket sellers, while the academically gifted represented Ben Davis on television in the High School Bowl Program. Reliving the gala atmosphere of Bourbon Street, BD'ites left behind their cares during the festivities of the Mardi Gras, sponsored by the journalism department.

BD Went Where the Action Was

Although his interests were many, all Giants participated in some capacity, whether it be academic or extra-curricular. Putting aside all frustrations and tensions, laughter lit the stage. Giants moved from a quiet '68 to a roaring '69. Some found great satisfaction in events such as the Sportsmanship Dance, the All-School Party, and the Prom, while others were hung up on Powder Puff football games and weiner roasts. All were signs of the upbeat happenings at Ben Davis High.

Determined Prowess Engulfed BD

Speed, strength, endurance, determination . . . this was the Ben Davis athlete in 1968-69. Losses did not always display the loyalty, skill, talent, and sportsmanship that prevailed above all at competitive events. Always seeking answers, the team and coaches worked hard. Hours and hours of daily practice, sometimes including weekends, were often forgotten by the spectator. Win or lose, a sign of a true Giant athlete was his ability to stick with it.

Giants Progressed in Academics

Each and every student at Ben Davis found creativity through academics in 1969. Those with an aesthetic nature discovered a myriad of art, music and drama classes to choose from. For the more scientifically and mechanically adept Giant, the availability of laboratories and shops offered great opportunities to satisfy the need to search, discover and express one's inner self. The guidance of teachers and administrators was another channel of aid for the BD student.

Gridiron Season Was Dedication

Dedication and determination were the signs of the season for "GIANT" gridironers. Playing teams, which ranked in the top ten all year, the "GIANTS" got off to a slow start and wound up the season with one win and nine losses. Coach Bill McClain said that if spirit and hustle were all that were needed to win football games, these boys could not have been beaten.

Senior captain Mike Stegemoller received due recognition by being placed on the all county 2nd team while seniors Marv Huff and Joe Johnson received honorable mention by leading this year's team.

Mike Stegemoller puts the stop to a Brebeuf Brave with the help of the onrushing Dave Messereau.

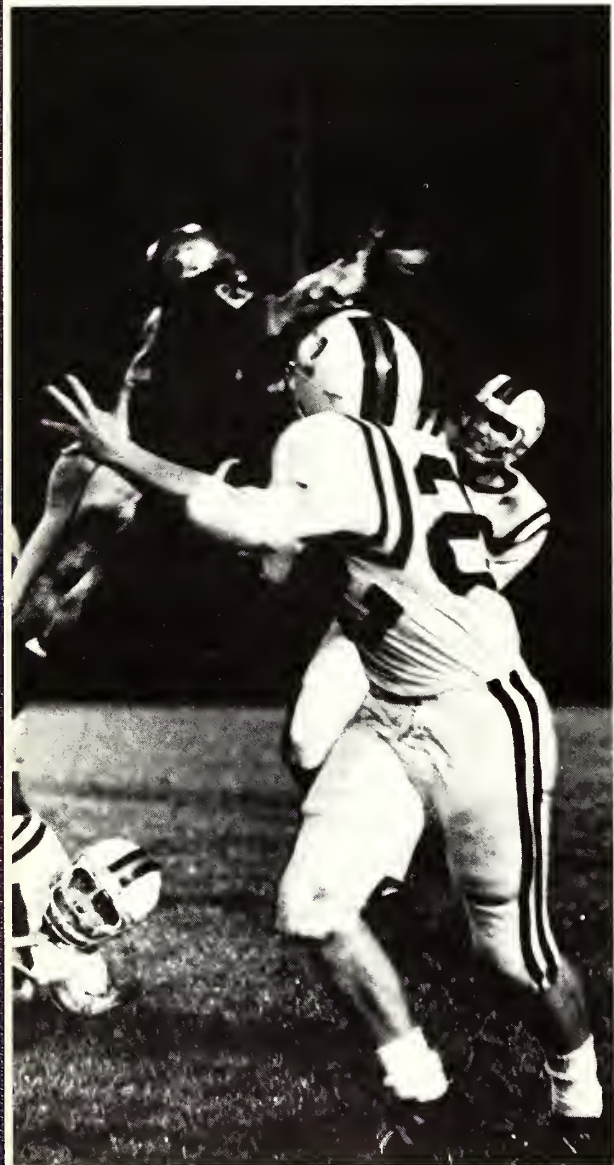

Mark Bloomer looks down the field for receivers while under pressure from the opponents.

Dale Morgan, following a "GIANT" block by Marvin Huff, rushes for pay dirt in the end zone. Rushing down field, looking for a block, is John Reid.

Joe Johnson, with nothing but six points ahead of him, turns to receive the pigskin.

"Who should I give the ball to," thinks quarterback Mark Bloomer as Vern Evans rushes by him.

Defense and Hustle Proved Victorious for "Little Giants".

Desire plus determination proved to be the road to victory for the reserve football squad. The "Little Giants" used this winning combination to achieve a proud season record of 7 wins and 2 losses, losing only to North Central and Washington.

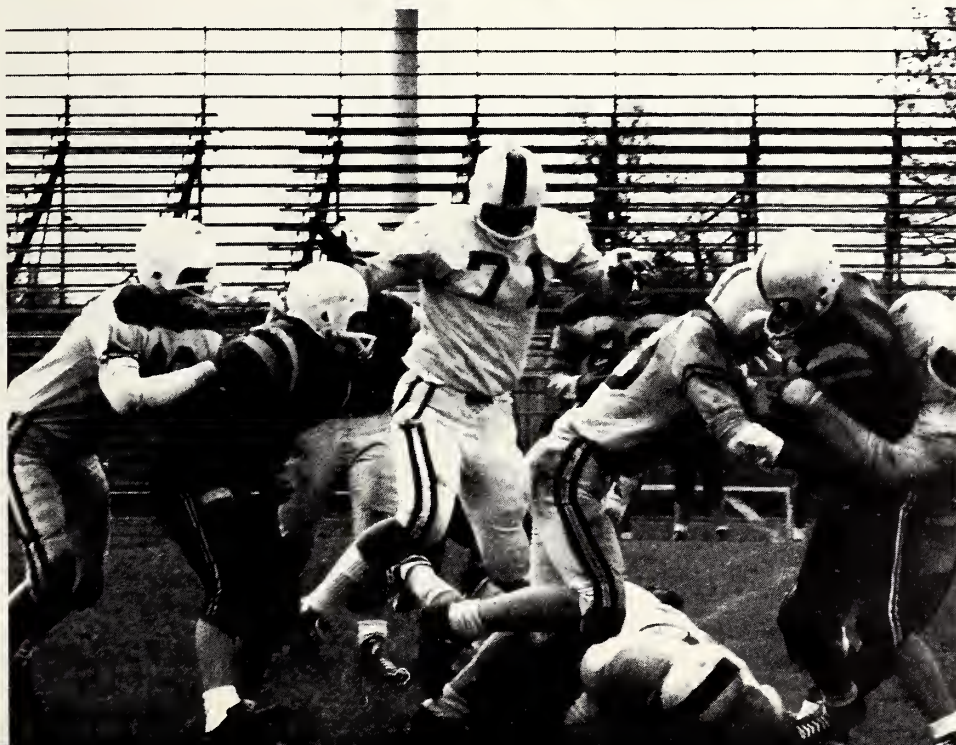

Leading the squad in its successful season were sophomores Willard Turpin who scored 92 points, Billy Martin 84 points, and Mark Bertalon with 81 points. The reserves proved to have the strongest defensive unit in the county by holding three teams scoreless and three other teams only to one touchdown.

Willard Turpin, 40, gives an extra burst of speed needed to out-distance his opponents.

Cross-Country Placed Well While

Considering the powerhouse opponents faced during the year a record of no wins was posted by the members of 68-69 Cross-Country team. Their record did not show the effort and determination put forth during the season.

On October 18, the Cross-Country team placed 8th in a field of 23 teams competing for the sectional crown. The first GIANT to cross the line was junior Benny Tinnon, followed closely by senior Brett Schmidli. Best time of the season was posted by Tinnon at the North Central meet, running a time of 10:18.

Coach Priscilla Conway's Girls Gymnastic Team achieved more victories and soared to greater heights during the 1968-69 season than ever before. In dual meet competition the girl gymnasts lost only over, this being to Howe. The losing margin was a mere 2 pts.

Combining skill and precise routines the team won the Louisville Invitational, in which 10 states are represented, for the 3rd straight year. Capping their victorious season was the 1969 State Meet. Out of 36 places Ben Davis took 14. Senior Vera Willoughby was selected best all around performer by merit of performance.

Gymnast's

True to tradition, Coach Frank Knuckles' gymnasts used ability and form as the sign of a winning season. Contributing to the wins were fine athletes such as Wayne Russell, a junior who worked on the trampoline; Mike Paine, junior, top ring man; Don Winslow, senior in floor exercise. The consistent wins by individuals, such as these, helped the team complete the season with a fine record. During January the first Marion County Invitational was held at Ben Davis. Although the competition was rough, our Giants grabbed four individual firsts while placing second overall. It took months of training and hard work to form a group of gymnasts capable for a season.

Sophomore Gary Baltzell spent most of his time looking down on the world as his teammates admire his position.

November 21, the varsity wrestling squad traveled to county power Franklin Central for their first competition of the 68-69 season. Losing only two meets during the season, the Giant Grapplers proved they had found the secret of success and made Ben Davis a name respected on the wrestling circuit. Victorious in all of their competitions, the matmen had juniors Grant Hodges and Percy Glover, who capped a sparkling 19-2 season record on this note.

With the varsity and reserve cheerleaders leading the booster clubs, the Giants could be considered “in” every game. The cheerleaders, essential in producing winning season, boost team morale with the school’s favorite sideline chants.

Each summer the cheerleaders attend a summer camp to improve traditional yells while learning new ones. Each year, the Giant Cheerleaders walked away with the first prize in the spirit competition.

This year the cheerleader held pep session not only for football and basketball, but also for the spring sports, such as track and baseball.

Springing high into the air varsity cheerleader, Cindy Parker, calls for a Giant victory.

Reserve cheerleaders left to right are, Linda Shireman, Vickie Huddleston, Donna Adams, Jenny Fischel and Becky Boyer, throughout the year they boosted the reserve teams on to victory.

BD Girls Show Athletic Prowess in GAA.

Promoting interest and participation in Sports, the Girls Athletic Association offered both inter-school and intramural competition. At their meeting the girls enjoyed volleyball, tennis, badminton, and ping pong. While bowling every Monday, the GAA found time to sponsor a Powder Puff Football team, GAA Basketball team, and build a Homecoming float. Spring activities included a Girls Athletic Association track team and a bicycle trip to Eagle Creek Reservoir.

Intramurals Were Exciting and Worthwhile

Intramural players had as much desire and excitement as any sport. Here Max Kuhn blocks a shot by the "skins" as John Reynolds defends.

For all boys not capable of making the varsity basketball team, there was always intramurals. Each Monday night for nine weeks, eight teams battled furiously, led by captains Mike Stegemoller, Chuck Jones, John Reid, Dave Helm, Bill Graham, Joe Lather, Gary Shoemaker, and Rusty Hardin. These eight hand-picked their members so that no one team had an advantage over another.

Taking over responsibilities for the annual intramural Round-Robin this year was Mr. Kenneth Cox. The final game, played for the first time in front of the student body, saw Mike Stegemoller hit a 40-footer with two seconds to go to win.

A fast break, faked shot, and perfect pass lead to an easy two points in a good play.

Seniors Stan Radford and Richard Beasley break up attempted two-point play by "shirts".

State Champion Paul Klotzbier works hard at a morning practice to improve his time in the 50-yard free-style for the up-coming meets.

State champions, county and sectional contenders, all were featured in Ben Davis' first year swim team. Making the most successful "splash" on the athletic scene in many years, the new team went into competition with the ability and will to win firmly in hand.

After finishing third in the county meet, coach Bill Despres and company went on to astound all at the state tournament. Paul Klotzbier, breaking all existing records in the 50-yard freestyle, won the state, while Darrell Cooper placed second in the backstroke and Dave Erne fourth in the butterfly.

Final standings were County: 4th; Sectionals: 4th; and State: 8th.

Basketball Was Crowd Pleaser

The Varsity Basketball season began with a new head coach, Allen Severn at the helm of the "GIANTS". Opening the season with victories over Arlington and Broad Ripple, the team was then dealt a loss by state-ranked Shortridge.

This year's team, led by seniors John Memmer and Greg Clark and juniors Vern Evans and Mike Taylor, the roundballers went on the road in search of victories, only to be upset in the County Tourney by Franklin Central. In Sectional play North Central gained a revengeful victory by downing our "GIANTS" 71-61. All in all the season was pleasing for first year coach, Allen Severn, and the "GIANT" fans.

The Little Giant roundballers proved that they too had that GIANT spirit. Combining a hard-fighting team, these cagers had a winning season. Their 11—9 record was climaxed with the defeat of arch rival Decatur Central. Other top schools bending to the will of these netmen were: Washington, LaPorte, and Arlington. The skill shown along with the great team spirit created excitement that carried through to the varsity games. Long hours of practice and physical exertion, added to the experienced coaching of Coach Bob Britt, made the team and the season great.

Reserve games were as exciting and fast as the varsity games. The experience gained in these games was training for future varsity players.

Seniors Greg Clark and John Reid, varsity hurdlers, both finished in the Southport-Ben Davis meet. Clark earned first and Reid a third.

Cindermen were Trackmasters

Juniors Benny Tinnon and Gary Strader get a quick start in the mile event. Tinnon, although losing this meet, was the top Ben Davis miler.

The 1969 Varsity Trackmen lead by seniors Greg Clark, running high and low hurdles and high jumping, and John Memer high jumping and broad jumping along with Brett Schmidli running the half mile paced this year's team. The outstanding performance was by junior Mike Taylor who ran the quarter mile in 50.7 seconds to break the old B.D. record. Other outstanding juniors were Benny Tinnon, Miler and Dave Crawley, the 100 yard dash man. Together the performance of these boys gave Ben Davis a great track season.

Courtmen Top Completion

The tennis team with several returning lettermen who formed a strong nucleus pounded the tennis ball so hard that many opponents found it rather difficult to come up with a win. Doing the most damage to the opponents were seniors Doug Bengé, Dave Erne, Paul Klotzbier, and Steve Sanders. Keeping with the "Giant" spirit these four, with the coaching of Mr. Roger Bush, kept the tennis team in every match. While the underclassmen were gaining experience, the tennis team was considered a county contender.

Mike Goering smashes a return to an equally fast swinging opponent in the opposite court.

Golf Team Was Up to Par

The varsity golf team, coached by Mr. Allen Severn in his first year in the "Land of the Giants", was paced by three juniors, Fred Poland, Jay Ludlow, and Craig Thomas, who have all played varsity since their freshman year. Keeping up with the times, the team started the year out on the right foot with a victory. With all this experience returning again this year, Coach Severn enjoyed a fine first year.

Rex Jones shows the form which he used during the 69 season.

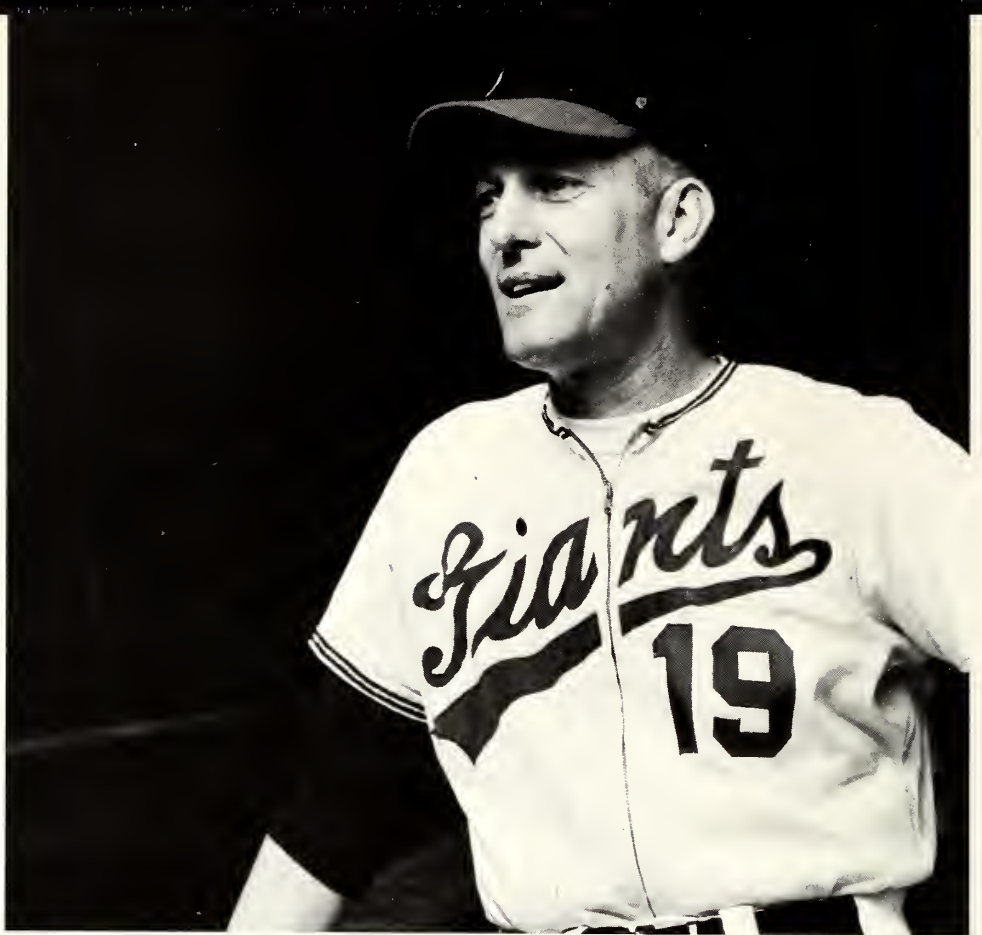

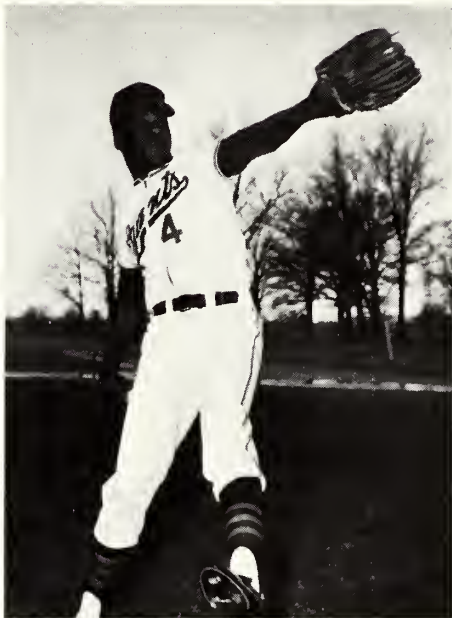

Getting set for a long drive junior Dave Ristow tears into the ball with the strength which earned him a starting position.

Jay Ludlow lines up a putt carefully in order to win the match and help win the meet.

Number 19, Coach Ken Cox, addresses members of his varsity baseball team whom he led to victory in the 1969 baseball season for Ben Davis High School.

Basemen Captured Victories

The varsity baseball team, under the coaching of Mr. Kenny Cox, played the role of the "county champs". Most teams playing in that position usually fold under the pressure, but not our fighting "Giants". With the leadership of all-county Ray Slagle and Terry Miller, the "Giants" fought for every run they made while pitcher Marv Huff and catcher Mike Stegemoller, the best battery combination in the county, made the opponents work for the few hits they got. With all the spirit the baseball team has, it would be no surprise if you see them in Bush Stadium come June.

“Little Giants” Hit and Run

Coach Bob Derival's reserve baseballers finished the '69 season by keeping with the sophomore tradition of a winning season. The underclassmen, led by catcher John Garver and pitcher Jeff Wilson, mowed down opponents with such ease that the “Little Giants” marched on to victory after victory. Not being a powerful long ball hitting team, the “Little Giants” singled the opposition into misery with their tactic of hit and run.

Coach Derival said that, after these youngsters gain experience, they will certainly strengthen Coach Cox's varsity baseball team.

Lettermen's Goal Was Years of Work and Hope

After many months of long and hard work, the climax of an athletic season is rewarded to the participant with his letter and sweater. Additional awards are given for succeeding accomplishments and the recipients wear their sweaters and awards with pride.

The Lettermen's Club was enlarged this year with the addition of a swimming team which included the 50-yard champion Paul Klotzbier. Every spring the "BD" wearers gather at Merritt Park for their annual picnic.

Boys, after a hard season, accept their just reward for their performance during wrestling. Here Bill White accepts his pin.

Here it is. This is what all BD athletes work hard for many long months. The letter sweater represents a good athlete and a good student because an athlete must maintain grades to stay eligible.

Busy Council Members Kept the Action Happening

In spite of bad weather, spirited students still rode the "booster bus" to the football game

Student Council made the action happen. Officers worked with the representatives, sophomores, juniors, and seniors, elected from their respective homerooms, for better teacher-student relationships and in planning various activities.

Whenever anything needed to be done, the Student Council was called to the scene. Coke machines were installed in the cafeteria for student use during activity period, booster buses were made available for the sport enthusiasts, and sock hops were provided for the dance-minded after ball games. Other events were—Homecoming in October, the All-School Party with Sir Winston and the Commons in March, and Teacher Appreciation Day in April.

Two American Field Service Program Students, (Jorge Olle from Chile and Claas Rasche from Germany,) enjoyed their stay at Ben Davis. One-dollar shares were sold to finance their trip and visit.

Devoted history students further pursued their interests last year by joining the History Club. In an effort to relate their adult counterparts, they participated in a mock election, both national and state. Through this exploration of politics, they learned about our complicated governmental structure. In the spring the club enjoyed a trip to Lincoln's home in Springfield, Illinois.

Contributing to the excitement of the national election and helping to mold young political minds was the formation of the Teenage Republicans. This gave the chance for anyone to voice his own opinions on governmental policies and to hear those of his peers.

Efforts of Superior Students Were Rewarded

High standards were set for members of Mu Alpha Theta, Ben Davis' honorary math club. Requirements were above average grades in math and at least a "C" in all other subjects. Anyone meeting these was then eligible to join. With the help of Miss Nina Martin and the officers, each student was recognized for his outstanding abilities and talents in the field of mathematics.

For the first time last year, the Ben Davis Honor Society formed a quiz team. After being voted on by NHS members, the team competed with other nearby high schools on local television. Team members included Larry McMillin, David Wallace, Faye Delano, and Brett Schmidli, pictured at the left.

Diane Reynolds catches up on some of her debate work in the speech office.

When most students were asleep, it wasn't unusual for a member of NFL to be getting up at five o'clock on a Saturday morning to go to a speech meet. It was due to this dedication, that after receiving national recognition the previous year, the NFL continued to keep up the good work. They worked industriously in such areas as debate, dramatics, extemporaneous speaking, poetry, and original oratory.

Much Time Spent on Productions

Through the effective use of lighting and unusual scenery, The Crucible was an overwhelming success. Jeff Sparks, portraying the lead role of John Proctor, and Val Phelps, as Tituba, displayed the Thespians ability at its best. In reproducing this well-known play, more than 60 Thespians spent weeks readying for opening night.

In March strains of Oklahoma echoed throughout the halls as Thespians performed this beloved musical to standing room only crowds.

"Producing one of the all-time Broadway hits, Oklahoma held both challenge and reminiscence for cast and directors. Variety of characters, changes of sets, and the lasting quality of vocal scores made Oklahoma an outstanding musical hit," commented Mr. Larry Highbaugh, speech department chairman.

A contemporary satire, The Mouse that Roared, concerned political foibles of international world relations and closed the year's productions.

Service Was the Objective of SSS and AV

"Service" was the key word for the audio-visual organization. They took the responsibility of assisting with local presentation and production of AV materials and the operation of duplicating machines. They provided guidance in photography and also in the evaluation of commercially-produced instructional materials. Showing old-time movies to which they had taped varying sounds highlighted their Mardi Gras participation.

The Sunshine Society, Ben Davis' all girl service club, engaged in many activities, both enjoyable and worthwhile. Beginning the year with a cookout, they also donated canned goods to needy families, had a Daddy Date Night chili supper, and a formal dance. Correspondence with a little Korean orphan brightened lives on both sides of the ocean as the girls learned through experience of giving.

Whether he planned to go into science as a vocation or just enjoyed peeking at some strange object under a microscope, the Science Club gave each student a chance to go share his scientific interests with others. This was done through various guest speakers and a special trip to the Science and Industry Museum in Chicago. These activities proved to be both entertaining and educational. As a special service to the school and as a money-making project, the Science Club managed the candy sale during activity period in the cafeteria.

Any student enrolled in Algebra I or higher and having a true interest in mathematics qualified for Trialge. At monthly meetings the members met the challenges of math puzzles and problems.

Clubs Met Scientific & Mathematic Challenges

Members of the Science Club were, FRONT ROW, left to right: C. Towell, M. Cappleman, K. Harder, E. Jones, C. Stites, B. Radcliffe, C. Schober, K. Fine, D. Hardwick, and A. Kurshan. SECOND ROW: R. To encourage and develop business leadership, Future Business Leaders of America undertook selling senior name cards. This was but one of the high goals set to promote aggressive business leadership. Activities of the club included listening to business speakers, going on field trips, and learning business principles.

In addition to selling candy to award scholarships to seniors, Future Teachers of America also served various banquets and provided cadet teaching opportunities. FTA promoted interest in education and teaching as well as to provide opportunities for leadership.

Interested Students Prepared for Tomorrow

"Christ for Me," the theme song of the Youth for Christ Club, opened the monthly meetings. The newest change in the club was its name, Campus Life. A "talk in," spaghetti supper with entertainment by the Roses and Thorns, and Thanksgiving baskets for needy families concluded the year's activities.

How does a woman develop a good home atmosphere? Senior high girls explored the answer in Future Homemakers of America. Making Christmas stockings for welfare children and selling Valentine corsages to other students were just two of the many projects undertaken.

Time Was Devoted to Future Medical Careers

Future speech therapists, nurses, doctors, dentists, and X-ray technicians were just some of the people that comprised the Health Careers Club. To enable the members to learn more about the medical field, increase their interest, and explore the vast opportunities, outside speakers in the above fields enumerated their duties at meetings. Members benefitted personally by increasing their interests in mankind.

For those other medical-minded students, there was the Red Cross Club. Through their helpful endeavors, each member's life became more enriched and meaningful.

Chess and Art Clubs Required Thoughtful Effort

"Check-mate" is a key word in a chess match. Anyone who joined the Chess Club last year learned that quickly. He also learned that, although chess is a game of intense concentration, it could also be fun. It gave members an opportunity not only to learn the techniques of the game but also to participate in competition with other schools. Experience gained in matches prepared them for school and county tourneys.

"Doing their own thing" came easily for members of the Art Club. All future Rembrandts of Ben Davis displayed their talents "doing" such projects as constructing a homecoming float entitled "Burn those Braves" and painting in their hippie Art Colony at the Mardi Gras. Art sales joyfully added a note of business and profit to the busy year.

Language Clubs Develop Foreign Culture

Latin Club members took part in the fall Mardi Gras by making arrests for their jail booth. In the spring delegates attended the State Convention at Indiana University. Again this year, members spent exhausting hours working on the annual Roman banquet and slave sale. By contributing a Thanksgiving basket to a needy family, they also endeavored to share with those who were less fortunate.

Seated to the right are members of the Latin Club, sponsored by Mr. Arvin Brokaw.

Being kept busy by the many events on the French Club calendar, its members became more acquainted with the language and culture of France. Activities included building the second place float for Homecoming and having a Christmas party to help celebrate the holidays. With the aroma of incense and the music of the Roses and Thorns, the French coffeehouse became one of the most popular attractions at the Mardi Gras. They also enjoyed the famous cuisine several times during the year at Chez Jean, a local French restaurant.

To the left are members of the Spanish Club, sponsored by Mrs. Alyse Schoenfeldt and Mrs. Julia Riquelme.

Like any foreign language club, the German Club strove to teach its members German traditions and customs, in addition to the usual study of the language. Along with a trip to the Stockholm House, they participated in the Mardi Gras and learned German Christmas customs at their Christmas party.

Hablo Español. Along with this, only a true interest in Spanish was required. Besides their traditional carmel apple sale, the club also visited the Stockholm House.

Music Paved the Way to Culture

Demonstrating superb talents and ability, the Deep Purples served Ben Davis in many ways. Such songs as "Up, Up, and Away" and "Georgie Girl" were heard at the Eastern Star meeting at Wanamaker Lodge and the Tax Collectors meeting where this choir performed. Under the direction of Mrs. Geraldine Miller the Deep Purples also sang at Christmas in a school convocation, as well as at Lafayette Square. Floor length white and purple velvet gowns for the girls added a new and pleasing atmosphere to the group while the boys looked distinguished and sophisticated in their dinner jackets.

Creative Talent Was Displayed in Musical Groups

The Ben Davis Madrigals presented music from the fifteenth and sixteenth century. The ensemble, dressed in authentic attire, revived a madrigal dinner in the school cafeteria for the third consecutive year. They also received a first place award in the district music contest.

Adding a new dimension to the choral department were the Highlights, an all-male vocal group. Their various activities included acting as singing Santa Clauses at Christmas.

Giants Paraded to Victory in '69

Officers of the band were, STANDING left to right: J. Fansler, D. Daily, and M. Magnabosco. SEATED: L. Mains, K. Scobee, J. Straber, and S. Dailey.

Band Director, Mr. Hal Meurer, along with several onlookers, smiles happily after receiving a check for $2723.55 from the band parent's fruitcake sales.

Providing colorful entertainment and displaying their versatility were the Marching Giants. Hoping to achieve perfection, they practiced diligently for the State Fair and Disneyland Holiday Contests. The rewards for their accomplishments were the third place awards won for both events.

Along with the Marching Band was the Orchestra, the Stage Band, and the Pep Band. While the Orchestra and Stage Band played at various social functions, the Pep Band was at all home games and pep rallies promoting Giant spirit.

Orchestra and Band Showed Superb Musical Talent

Promoting spirit, the Pep Band marches down the corridor.

Mr. Paul Silke directs the Pep Band.

Exchange Students Brought Foreign Cultures to BD

With the advent of the 1968-69 school year, Ben Davis went international. Representing West Germany, Claas Rasche, brought a European flair, while Jorge Olle' from Chile added a Latin American touch. Both boys were selected by the AFS officials in their respective countries on the basis of their academic achievements, extracurricular activities, and numerous personal interviews. During their stay, Claas lived at the home of the Robert Stites family and Jorge with the Paul Sparks'.

Giant Bowling Club Was Largest in Indiana

Providing variety in the lives of all Giant bowlers was the Bowling Club. It gave a break from the usual school day and also a chance to take part in a competitive sport. At the end of the year, their efforts were rewarded with trophies given at the annual banquet. Over 150 members made this group the largest in the school and the largest bowling club in the state.

Mr. Antonopoulos discusses a scoring problem with two members.

School Events Were Actively Supported by Fans

Officers of the Sideliners, pictured above, were M. Huff, president, and D. Copper, secretary-treasurer. Sponsors were Mr. R. Derival and Mr. F. Knuckles.

Supporting school activities and good will for Ben Davis High School were the Sideliners, an all-male booster club. This year's activities included distributing purple hats and arm bands for the basketball sectional, a nail-driving booth at the Mardi Gras, and a basketball game between the W.I.-F.E. Good Guys and faculty to raise money for the athletic program. However, their projects were not limited entirely to the school. They also donated food and trees to needy families at Christmas.

Crowned at the last home basketball game, Joe Johnson and Kathy Fine reigned as Sportsmanship King and Queen.

BD Soul Boosted Each Giant Endeavor to Victory

"Spirit" was the sign of the Giant Dolls, an all-girl pep club which cheered the varsity basketball team to many victories. To encourage school spirit, basketball tourney sectional derbies were sold. Other activities included a covered wagon Homecoming float and a pre-school teacher spirit day.

Backing the Giant track team, girls found participating in Yardleys a rewarding experience. Their tasks were comprised of keeping and tallying scores, measuring and recording distances, announcing events and winners, and holding the finishing tape.

Officers of the Giant Dolls were: S. Galovic, president, D. Fassino, vice-president, M. Speedy, secretary, B. Weakly, treasurer, M. Thompson, senior representative, K. Shannon, junior representative, and C. Harper, sophomore representative.

Staffs Relayed Latest BD News

Sponsored by Mrs. Betty Packard, the school newspaper, the Spotlight, was published every two weeks. Writing articles, proof reading, revising, and working late to meet deadlines were all part of producing an award-winning paper like the Spotlight. Aside from their work, however, the staff, along with Quill and Scroll, again sponsored the Mardi Gras. The News Bureau staff had the job of being responsible for all the high school news and happenings appearing in local newspapers.

Worthwhile Opportunities Attracted Many Students

Versatility—this was the key to a Giant's participation. Every individual was given the opportunity to express himself and develop his personal desires through worthwhile activities. Using leisure time wisely, he did his own thing to the best of his ability. Whether it be Mask and Gavel, National Honor Society, or Yardleys, each endeavor was met with equal enthusiasm.

Working diligently, Elillian Cunningham makes an album layout.

Mrs. Packard, adviser, discusses the advertising section with three staff members.

Keyhole Staff Worked Industriously

Each member of the Keyhole tried to be unique in doing something new and different. Students devoted many hours outside of school in preparing the yearbook for deadline dates. A single page involved creating a layout, taking and cropping pictures, writing captions, copy, and headlines, properly assembling the needed materials, and shipping them in a carrier envelope to the publishing company. Many staff members attended a clinic in Chicago to learn new journalism techniques and to develop creative planning.

Activities Challenged BD Giants

Academics: Signs of Discovery

English Revealed Literary Giants

Employing gestures helps Mr. Hoyt explain the elements of literary composition to his class.

The refreshing coolness of a Spanish garden on a warm summer evening or the hustle and bustle of an open-air market in Algiers were samples of vicarious experiences that literature students encountered while enrolled in various literature classes at Ben Davis.

Always dreaded, but nevertheless necessary, students also experienced grammar and composition courses. Although often scorned and scoffed, grammar and comp teachers worked toward making some of the BD Giants "literary giants" of the future.

Stage and Stump Found Intriguing

Lack of communication has been held as the cause of the "generation gap." Overcoming the so-called barrier, dramatics and speech courses taught students how to develop and express ideas. Getting ideas across to an audience took great concentration in acting, make-up, and production. Challenging as well as rewarding, drama classes encouraged young amateurs to be aware of the many methods of communication. As a prerequisite to dramatics, Giants took beginning and advanced speech and debate classes to foster logic, creativity, and self-expression.

Self-expression is a key to the freedom of speech, as well as a builder of confidence.

WBDG Was a Giant Station

WBDG moved ahead this year in the field of broadcasting under the new leadership of John E. Perry. New changes now include the issuing of monthly schedules and a variety of shows in keeping with the times. In the studios of WBDG, students interested in radio developed their skills and learned the ways of broadcasting. Video-tape recordings and remote assignments made by the television division aided in the interest level of other classes. Any classroom was able to have, upon request, those television programs which applied directly to their subject. In many ways, the department made Ben Davis learning a product of the times.

Aeronautics Fascinated B Dites

Would-be pilots, stewardesses, mechanics, engineers, and meteorologists discovered during a unique aerospace course the area which most intrigued them while gaining an informative general background for an airborne future. The pilot program contained lectures and classroom experience supplemented by numerous field trips and guest speakers. Highlighting the year, astronaut Owen K. Garriott arrived by helicopter during a whirlwind visit to Indianapolis. Garriott met with governmental dignitaries and recapped the Apollo program in an exclusive lecture to fascinated BD students.

I. A. Courses Opened Gateway to Better Jobs

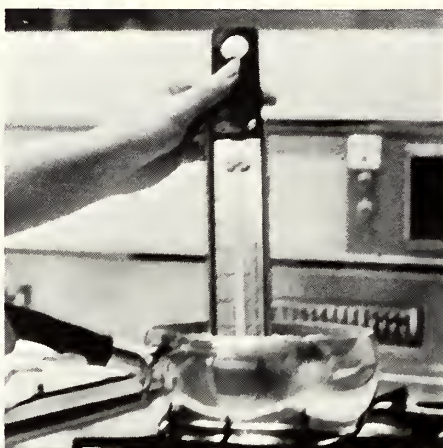

To meet the rising demand of industrial arts craftsmen, the I.A. program has dutifully granted to every student his or her choice of industrial arts courses. Power and transportation, metals, woods, machines, plastics, auto mechanics, aerospace, building trades, drafting, printing, and electricity are courses in which a student may train for his future career. "To take advantage of these courses," explained Mr. Mac Morrow, I. A. Department head, "is like putting money in the bank."

Mac Morrow, Ed Malone, Roger Bush, William McClain, Frank Fields, Homer Andrews, Glenn Underwood, Ron Dickerson.

Girls and Guys Added Diversity to Home Ec.

This year for the first time boys were allowed to tread the formerly female grounds of the home economics department. A boys' chef class offered experience in the culinary arts for males, while sewing and foods courses were still available to future homemakers. Family relations, child development, and interior decorating better prepared the teen of today for the job as a woman of tomorrow. Lectures and demonstrations from individuals outside the school offered the variety that home ec instructors believed was the spice of life.

Baking cookies was fun and gave the girls ideas for snacks to entertain their friends at home.

BDites Sought Their Answers

Many BDites used science courses offered at Ben Davis to unlock the doors of the future by combining practical experience with educational opportunities. Biology classes gave students a basic knowledge of the functions of living organisms, while chemistry and physics exposed students to inanimate concepts of our changing world. Although often tedious and perplexing, the benefits of finding one's own answers justified long hours of thought and preparation.

Numbers Challenged Students

Readin' 'ritin' 'rithmetic . . . Of the three R's, math was most certainly emphasized at Ben Davis High School in '69. Geometry, algebra, and trigonometry were only a few of the different courses offered by our well-rounded math department. The use of compasses, slide rules, and protractors offered the experience needed for further training. Engineering and architecture were not the only fields available to Giant mathematicians. Future chemists and doctors, surveyors, lawyers, and nurses found math at Ben Davis a step toward their hopes for the future.

John Shaw, captured by his enthusiasm for psychology, relates to his students how emotions can be both helpful and harmful. His humorous example is appreciated by students and teacher alike.

Giants Acknowledged the Past

Putting aside their own problems, Giants tried to come to a more complete understanding of the ambitions and difficulties in achieving their aims that preceding generations have faced. As realistically and objectively as possible, they tried to discuss the deficiencies, as well as the attributes, of our modern society, while endeavoring to predict their efforts on posterity. To give students a better background to discuss such issues the social studies department offered diversity in elective, as well as required courses, ranging from geography to Russian history.

Projects were assigned in history classes to interest students in early business life. Mike Owens, trying to get into the "Booming World of Business," stands by his home made oil well.

Linguists Hit World Scene

"With it" was the BD teen in relation to the international scene.

Stiffer college entrance requirements caused the language department to increase the number of advanced classes available to students of French, Spanish, German, or Latin.

Linguists were exposed to culture and customs of other lands through foreign language, study of films, records, and flash cards. Understanding life in our broadening world became simpler with the knowledge that all men, wherever they may live, experience the same wants and desires, feel the same emotions, dream the same dreams.

Giants Prepared for Future

Preparing themselves for a place in the world of business were those students enrolled in such courses as bookkeeping, business law, business math, and shorthand. Keeping in the swing of things, the business department also offered modern courses in data processing and business machines to familiarize business-minded Giants with the technology of business today. From Ben Davis business classes many Giants were able to enter the working class, while others continued their training in business colleges and various computer training schools.

Work-Study and PE Assisted in Future Fitness

In keeping with the modern methods of education, BDHS students were offered opportunities to work in the community and still attend school through work-study and Distributive Cooperative Education. Giants enrolled in these programs went to classes in the mornings; afternoons were spent as employees in local businesses.

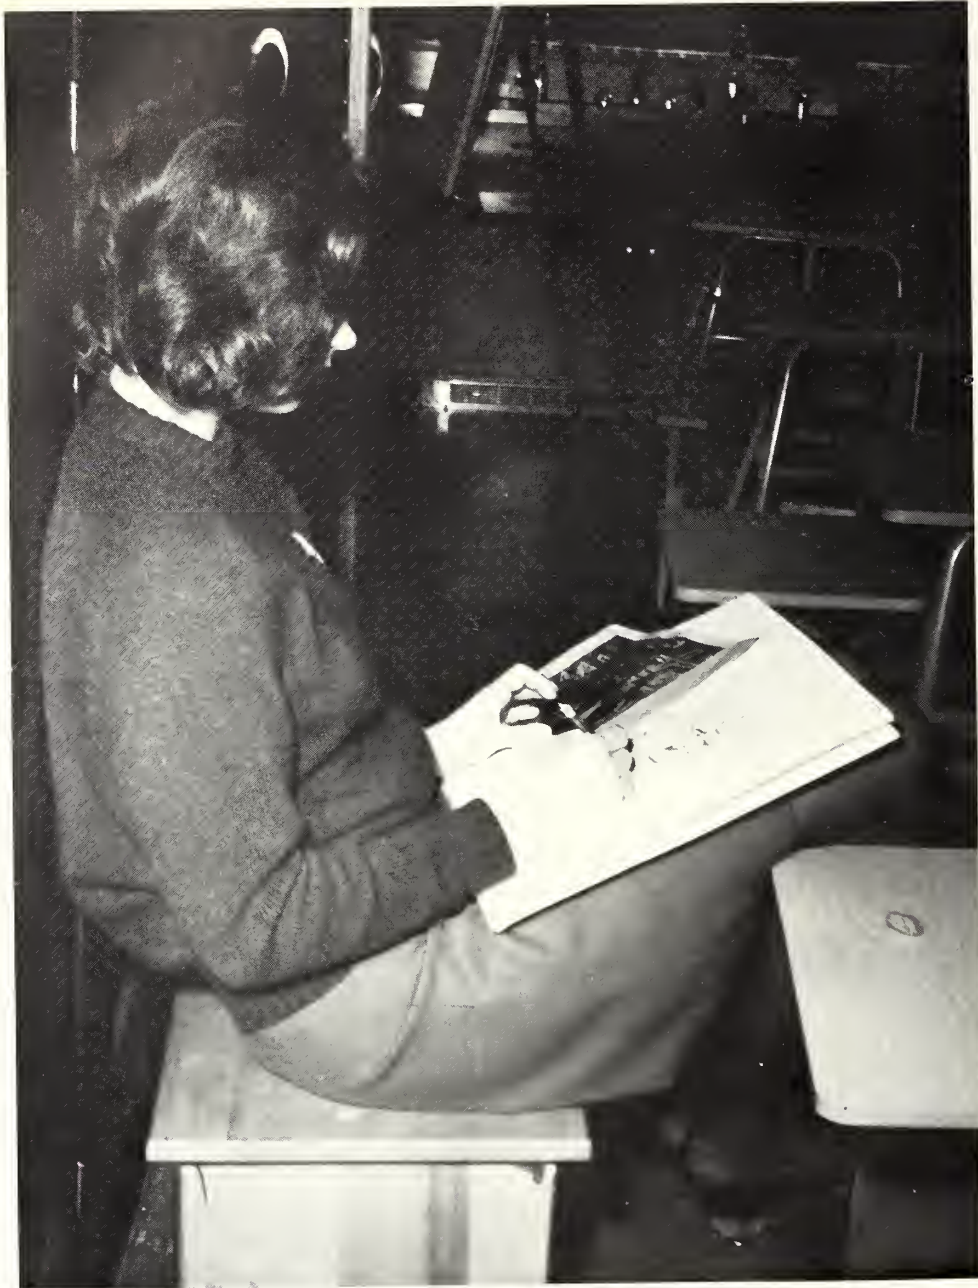

The diversified curriculum of the Ben Davis physical education department offered courses ranging from advanced to restricted courses in physical education. Also a part of the P.E. Dept. were health and safety and drivers' ed. Health and safety classes studied the intricate parts of human beings physically, mentally and emotionally. Drivers education not only lowered insurance costs but encouraged young drivers to remember that safety comes first.

Art Revealed Creative Abilities

One of the most creative outlets offered to students was in art courses. Whether "their thing" meant designing paper mobs, transforming brass, copper, or aluminum into mod jewelry, or plain old sketching and painting, Giants reached new heights of ingenuity. In general art students learned "the basics"—shapes, color schemes, color media, lighting, and numerous other intricate but vital items of artistic know-how. Advanced studies encouraged and developed originality and interested students in any of several possible careers, ranging from interior decoration and fashion design to commercial artistry and advertising.

They Had Rhythm and Sunshine

"Hello, Hello There" was the opening number at nearly all of the Choral Belles' performances as they sung gayly to entertain at various functions. The Choral Belles were just one of three performing groups which received credit toward graduation.

West Winds, a unique folk singing group with guitar accompanists, were delighted with their trip to the Children's Zoo, when they were given a train ride for a Christmas song.

The robed choir, Purple-Aires, performed in Seven Last Words, at school convos, and for church youth groups.

Giant Music Aroused BD Spirit

Any teen interested in music theory or literature, singing, or playing an instrument, discovered the music department fulfilled those interests. Beginning vocal students first enrolled in one of the cadet choirs. After one semester they faced auditions for the advanced performing choirs.

Inspired instrumentalists displaying dedication and talent were given the chance to work their way up in the chain of progressively-difficult bands. Cadet and reserve bands offered experience to future symphonic and concert band members.

AV and the Library Provided Diversity for Giants

Providing a storehouse of knowledge for students and community, the Charles H. Vance Library has facilities for 200 students at one time. A teacher's library is available for usage in daily preparation and research.

The Audio-visual department ordered films, made equipment available, kept equipment in satisfactory condition, and enabled students to learn the operation of these machines.

The new Trad-Flex schedule enabled students with no assigned class to use the library, cafeteria, and campus for independent study areas.

Opportunity Knocked Once Again

Adults who for some reason or another had not managed to complete their schooling enrolled in Ben Davis' extensive Adult Education Program. A variety of academic courses ranging from Driver Education to math met during the evening so adult students could receive credit towards their diploma.

For the creative adult, courses such as contract bridge, gourmet cooking, modern dance, lapidary, and antique furniture refinishing were only a few of the 45 non-credit courses. Interested adult females learned with the men how to work on engine tune-up, and saving money was the goal of those enrolled in income tax preparation.

Giants Saluted Their Departing Administration

The clinic was under the direction of Ursel Sommer.

Leonard Lowe sponsored the Chess Club.

The time comes when each good thing must come to an end. Nineteen-hundred and sixty-nine brought the close of two careers in teaching at BDHS. Mrs. Ursula Sommers, registered nurse, has been with the Wayne School system for 25 years. In past years she supervised the high school clinic. Mr. Leonard Lowe was on the faculty at several schools in Indiana, including ten years as principal before coming to Ben Davis in 1962. A widely-traveled individual, Mr. Lowe's classes have benefited from his slides and first-hand knowledge of other nations.

Administration would be impossible if each official had to perform his present duties plus the myriad of typing and clerical tasks performed by the office workers.

Counsellors Assisted Achievers

Recognizing that an attendance problem can indicate a more deeply-rooted trouble, the attendance office, headed by Dean Trent Gipson, worked closely with the guidance counselors. Advising private conflicts were not the only duty performed by the counselors, however. The majority of time spent with students involved scheduling for future classes and assisting them in exploring career possibilities. Career Day, where members of chosen professions came and spoke to interested students, gave first-hand experience as to what a particular job means.

Mrs. Rosemary McCart and Mrs. Mary McLaughlin found their jobs interesting although often difficult. 96

Mr. Britt and Mrs. Shuler enjoyed their jobs almost always. 44

Officials planned Collegiate Life

Innovation was the by-word at Ben Davis during 1969. The Trad-Flex schedule, initiated by Mr. Billy Abel, involved enrollment in as many as six courses meeting four times a week. Students discovered that, with the extra time made available by the new schedule, they could take advantage of library resources and develop more meaningful relationships with the faculty through student-teacher conferences. The task of individual program planning fell to Mr. Robert Seeman, while Mr. Howard Williams found his job of planning extracurricular activities less difficult because of the flexibility of daily schedules.

Mr. Seeman was in charge of curriculum.

Mr. Williams managed extracurricular activities.

Mr. Billy Abel, principal, was the developer of the new Trad-Flex schedule.

Dr. Sidney Spencer served his second year as Superintendent of all Wayne Township Schools.

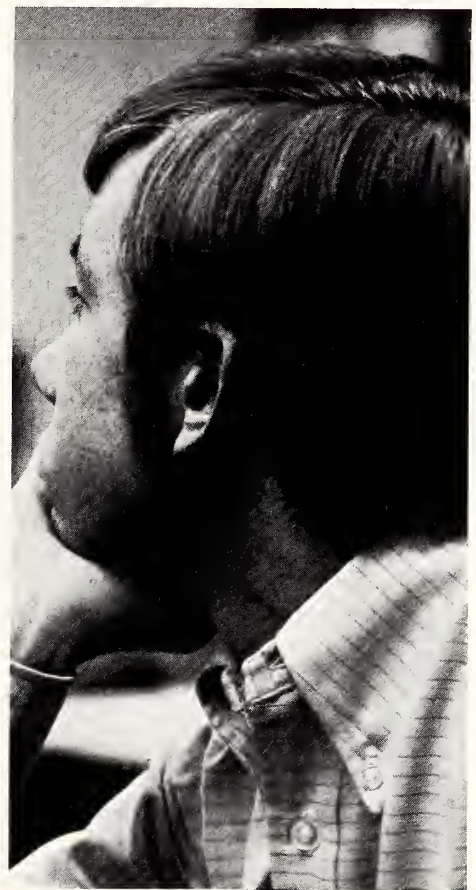

Members of the School Board were: Mr. Ben Thompson, Mr. Wm. Kendal, Mrs. Phillis Lewis, President Mr. Paul Barz, Mr. Robert Stites, and Dr. Spencer.

The Seniors Began Final Year at

A senior was a difficult person to be during the 1968-69 school year. Besides maintaining good grades and well-balanced social relationships, a senior often found himself puzzling over decisions that would affect his entire future—decisions such as which university, trade school, or business college to attend. How to finance such an endeavor were often major stumbling blocks. Amid the myriad of social events, such as the senior dance and the all-school party, or in the solitude of his room, a confused and frustrated senior could often be found trying to decide how he would live his life, yet afraid to decide because he could make the big mistake.

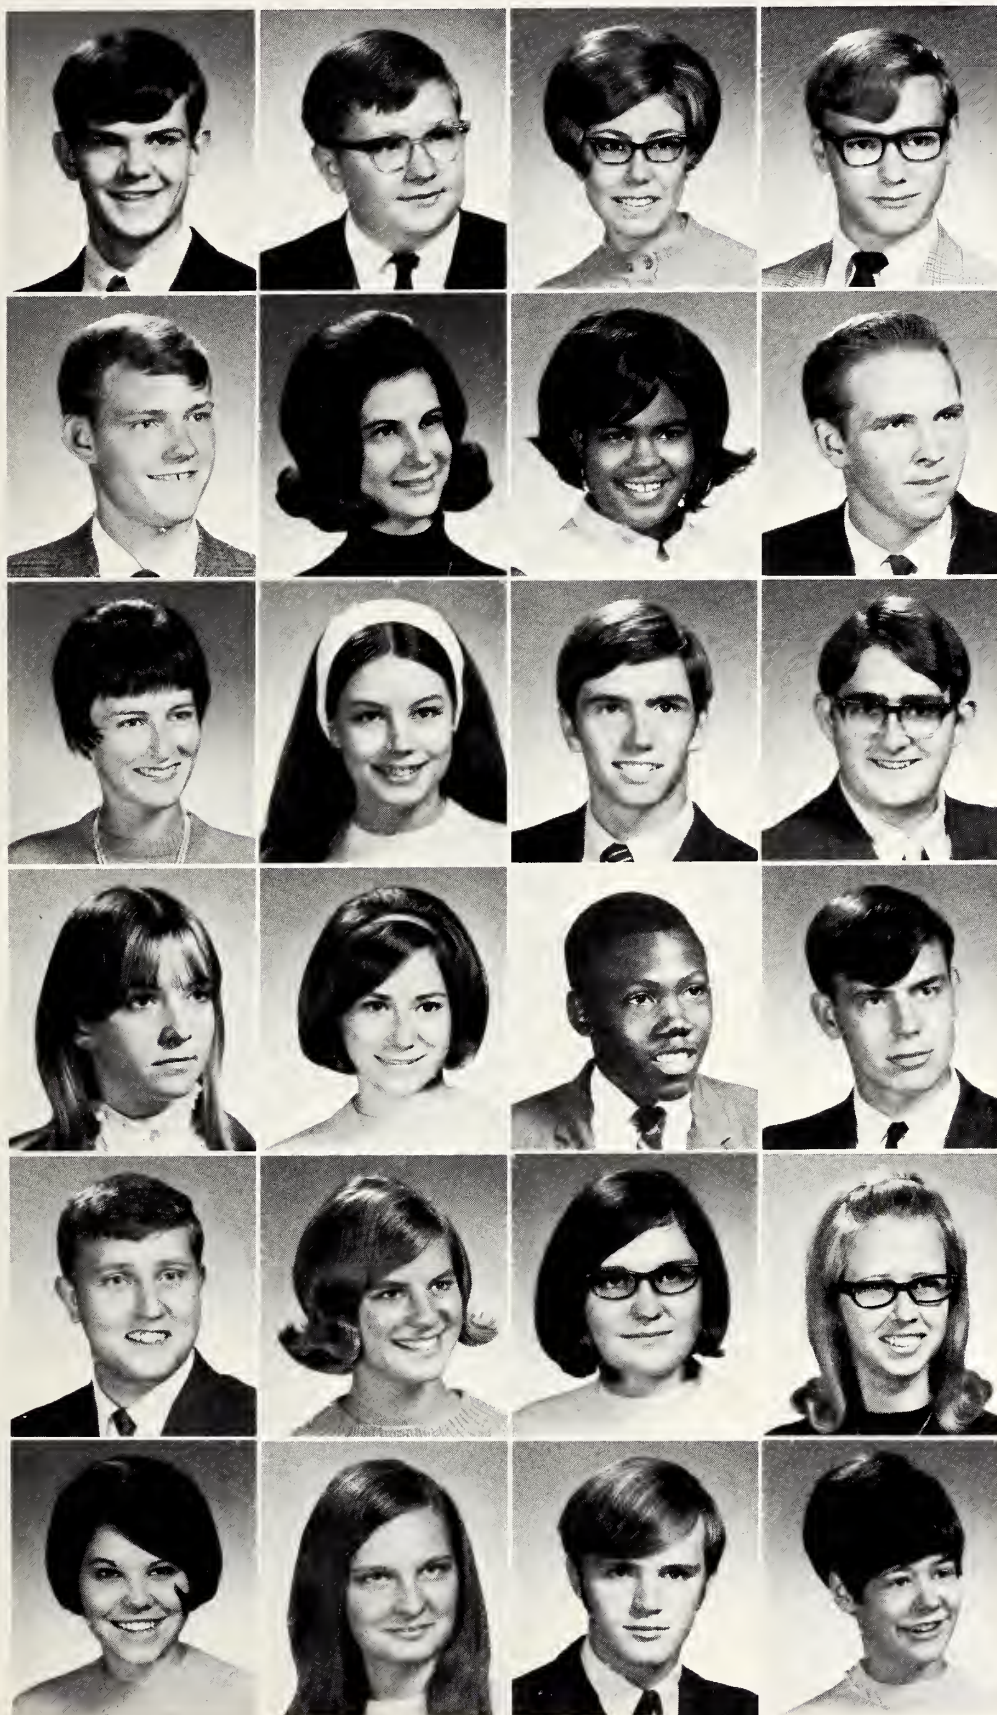

Discussing ideas among themselves for seniors are Steve Gummer, pres., Carol Schober, sec., Faye Delano, treas., Jeanette Eilers, vice-pres.

Brave Juniors Challenge the Class of '69

Junior class officers were Kay Shannon, Ray Schroeder, Terry Miller, and Marilyn Bray.

The class of 1970 was in many ways like other junior classes at Ben Davis, yet it was different. Juniors were no longer "at the bottom of the list" as they had been when sophomores. They looked back to their sophomore days and openly chuckled at the antics they had performed and the mistakes they had made. They looked to the future to the day that they would be seniors with anticipation and some fear, for they were unsure of what the future held for them.

The differences that the junior class possessed were all good. The class of '70 offered outstanding leaders, as well as some of the best scholars and athletes Ben Davis had ever possessed.

Sophomores Experienced Active First Year

Sophomores found their first year at Ben Davis High School different than their years in junior high. Adjustment was the "thing" for sophomores. Attending a larger school with more students and the tradflex schedule required much adjustment.

Witnessing the initiation of new Honor Society members inspired underclassmen toward academic achievement, while intramural and reserve sports and clubs involved them in extracurricular activities. Ordering class rings and planning the sophomore party were parts of the rituals of the youngest Giants.

Shining Giants Lighten Future

This was our year—Giant year 1969, captured in part by this KEYHOLE. It was a year of happenings for the on-the-go student body; a year of strained eyes and sleepless nights for scholars, trophies and blue ribbons for forensic members, sweat and endurance for athletes. It brought us one year closer to the time when each Giant must go on alone—to pick up the reins of full responsibility in the adult world. This year of further initiation at Ben Davis has proved that Giants will be ready to accept those future tasks—and remain shining Signs of their Time.

The entire Keyhole staff would like to extend our deepest appreciation to the following people without whom this book would not have been possible:

Mrs. Betty Packard, advisor;

Mr. Billy Abel, principal;

Mr. Bill Wright, publisher's representative;

American Yearbook Company, publishing company;

Pat McKenrick Photography, Inc., commercial photographers;

Indiana School Pictures, Co., underclass photographers;

Executive Studios, senior photographers.
